With today's focus of law enforcement terrorism training on prevention and disruption of planned terrorist attacks, patrol officers have become the first-line of defense for anti-terrorism efforts. Information gathering and reporting is central to this new role for officers.

This Telecourse provides updated training on the terrorism intelligence process and highlights the importance of the field officer in the collection of information that can later be turned into intelligence. Using realistic field-based scenarios, the program teaches that every investigation is important, and each piece of information can play an important part in a larger terrorism investigation.

The Telecourse DVD offers three viewing options:

1. Play Telecourse in its entirety (113 min.)

2. Select among 9 segments:

- Introduction (1 min.)
- The Information Pay-off (18 min.)
- The Intelligence Process: Overview (14 min.)
- The Intelligence Process: Collection and Evaluation (17 min.)
- The Intelligence Process: Collation, Analysis, Review and Dissemination (12 min.)
- The Intelligence Process: Actionable Intelligence (17 min.)
- Arizona Terrorism Intelligence System Update (9 min.)
- California Information-Sharing System Update (6 min.)
- Intelligence In Action (19 min.)

3. Select among 5 "Russian Terrorist" field scenarios (Interactions).

- Traffic Stop
- Traffic Stop Evaluation
- California Intel Center
- Intelligence Results
- Feedback

* Specific to DVD only. The first four digits of the Course Control Number (xxxx) is the preassigned Telecourse Presenter Number specific to your agency; the tenth and eleventh digits (xx) are the fiscal year in which your agency presents this program. See website for detailed instructions.

Anonymous Tip of DUI

with William Bedsworth, Justice of the Court of Appeal, State of California
Courts across the country are carving out an exception to the basic rule that an anonymous tip will not support detention, arrest, or search. A California court has now held that an anonymous tip will support a stop for DUI. Justice Bedsworth discusses Lowry v. Gutierrez and explains its limitations. This is a very important case that officers need to fully understand if they are going to work patrol. Cases cited: Lowry v. Gutierrez (2005) 124 Cal. App. 4th 926; Florida v. J.L. (2000) 529 U.S. 266. (9:18)

Subjective Intent and Search Clauses

with Jeff Rubin, Alameda County District Attorney's Office
A probationer with a search clause permitting a search for some, but not other, items has no reasonable expectation of privacy in areas where the items within the scope of the search may be located. Thus, where an officer does a search under a search clause allowing searches for narcotics and finds stolen property in a portion of the probationer's residence where drugs might be located, the stolen property will be admissible in court regardless of the officer's reason for searching. Case cited: People v. Gomez (2005) 130 Cal.App.4th 1008. (7:20)

Miranda: "Indirect" Questioning

with Daniel McNerney, Superior Court Judge, State of California
Brief statements or comments to a suspect about the case or the evidence will not be viewed as "indirect" questioning under Miranda. Cases cited: Rhode Island v. Innis (1980) 446 U.S. 291; People v. Simms (1993) 5 C4 405; People v. Boyer (1989) 48 C3 247; People v. Dominick (1982) 182 CA3 1174; U.S. v. Flores (1994) 33 F3 1164; People v. Haley (2004) 34 C4 283. (6:54)

"Grabbing Area" Searches

with Jeff Rubin, Alameda County District Attorney's Office
Police making a custodial arrest of a suspect may, incident to that arrest, search the area immediately accessible to the suspect at the time of his arrest, even after the arrest, so long as the search is reasonably contemporaneous with the arrest and nothing has occurred in the meantime to render it unreasonable. Cases cited: People v. Rege (2005) 30 Cal.Rptr.3d 922; Chimel v. California (1969) 395 U.S. 752. (5:06)

Discovery: What You Have to Give the Defense

with William Bedsworth, Justice of the Court of Appeal, State of California
Generally, anonymous tips will not provide reasonable suspicion for a detention unless they predict future criminal activity, or give accurate details and provide first hand knowledge by the caller. Cases cited: People v. Jordan (2004) 121 CA4 544; People v. Dolly (2005) 128 CA4 1354. (7:38)

Imperfect Self-Defense of Others

with Jeff Rubin, Alameda County District Attorney's Office
A suspect who kills under an unreasonable but actual belief in the need to prevent imminent great bodily injury or death to another is only guilty of voluntary manslaughter under the doctrine of "imperfect defense of others." Other aspects of self-defense and imperfect self defense are discussed. Case cited: People v. Randle (2005) 35 Cal.4th 987. (9:49)
